TYPES OF A GENERAL ASSEMBLY

The General Assembly can be:

- ORDINARY
- EXTRAORDINARY
- COMBINED

TYPES OF A GENERAL ASSEMBLY

The General Assembly can be:

- ORDINARY

An ordinary general meeting must be held within six months of the end of the financial year (in this case, on December 31). It presents detailed information on the activity and results.

In particular, it rules on the accounts for the ended year and the dividend, the appointments or renewals of directors and Statutory Auditors and the remuneration of corporate officers.

- EXTRAORDINARY
- COMBINED

QUORUM AND MAJORITY

The General Assembly can validly deliberate if the required quorum is reached, namely:

- In the case of an Ordinary General Meeting (OGM): 20% of the shares with voting rights must be represented on the first notice;
- In the case of an Extraordinary General Meeting (EGM): 25% of the shares with voting rights must be represented on the first notice.

The General Assembly decides on the resolutions:

- Reporting to the OGM: by a majority of the votes cast by the shareholders (ie 50% plus one vote);
- Under the EGM: by a two-thirds majority of the votes cast by the shareholders.

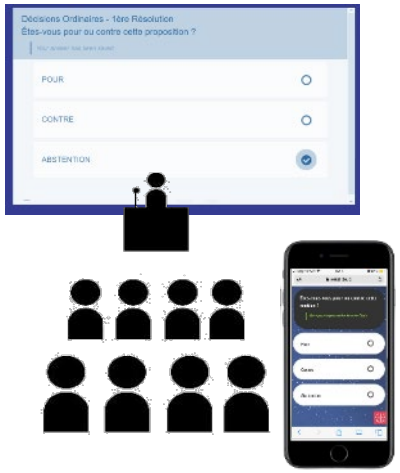
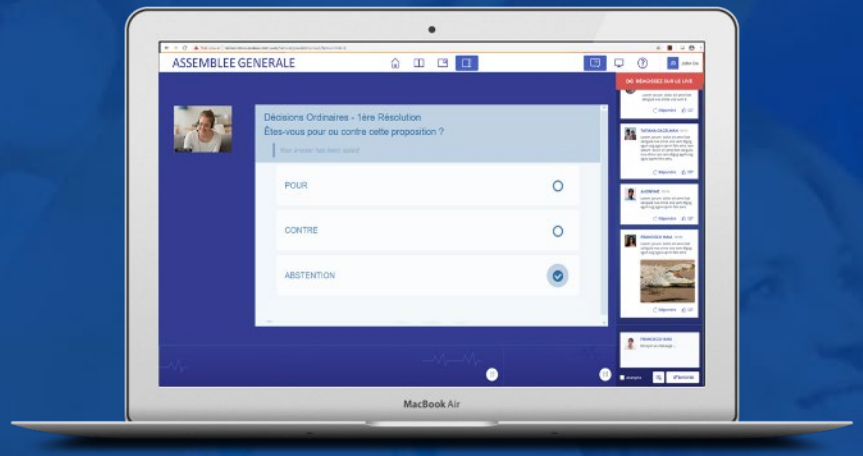
GLOBAL VOTE MANAGEMENT

Hybrid indoor and virtual synchronized voting



When a vote is triggered in the room, participants vote via their mobile phone (direct access from their space via mobile without installation)

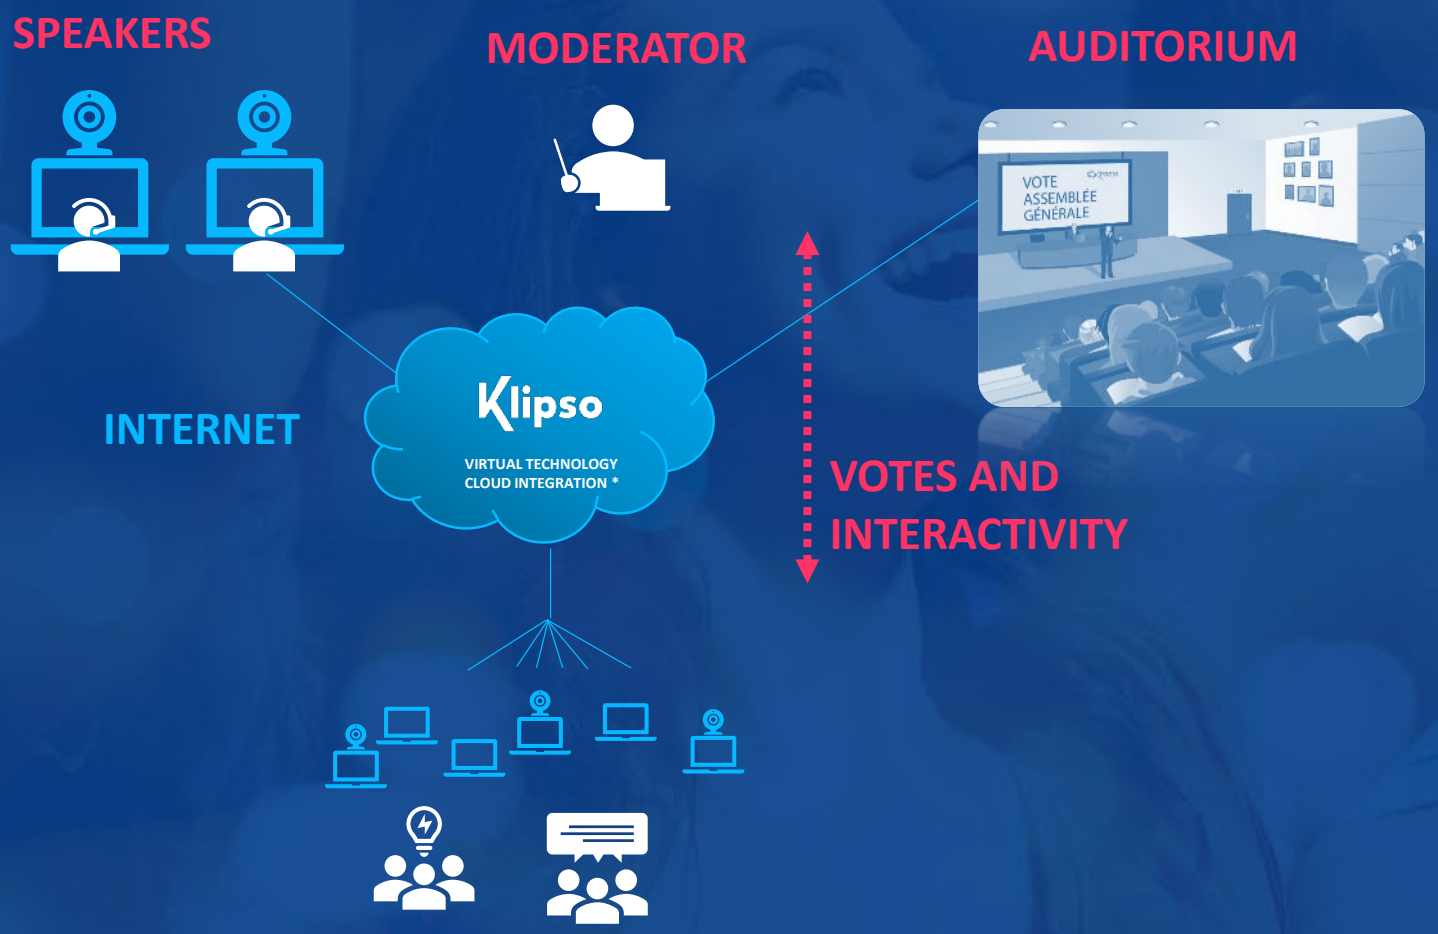
At the same time, e-voters can vote from their computers in the virtual room



THE RESULTS ARE AUTOMATICALLY SYNCHRONIZED IN REAL TIME AND THE RESULT CAN BE DISPLAYED AT THE SAME TIME IN THE VIRTUAL ROOM AND ON THE LARGE SCREEN OF THE PHYSICAL ROOM

The hybrid assemby: principles

Hold a physical and virtual meeting at the same time



HOW DOES IT WORK ?

Remote SPEAKERS have access to an interface allowing them to control their presentations. They are connected and speak in front of their webcam or capture device. Those of the auditoriums are captured by the camera and the whole is retransmitted to the participants

The MODERATORS who validate the messages of the audience and / or support the interactivity can be in the auditorium or remotely, or both if several moderators.

THE AUDIENCE receives the video and the presentations in real time on their computer and can interact via the interactivity modules and of course vote the resolutions. Synchronized vote.

It is therefore possible of a face-to-face GA with a few distant participants, or the reverse in case of a force majeure.

Many options can be added to the device (translation, multipoint recording, online registration of participants, e-commerce, etc.)

ACCESS TO THE GA : data and voting security

From authentication to the management of rights or the uniqueness of votes, our systems guarantee the reliability of the management rules put in place.

Securing access :

- Authentication of participants via a single account
- Identification of its voting weight at time t
- Duplicate control (power given, postal vote, etc.)
- Single access line

Sign-in :

- Declarative signature
- Extraction of the connected database
- BO for monitoring connected people and the associated total vote weight
